

Abstract

A biomimetically produced bone-analogous coating, comprising organic and inorganic main constituents, is 5 suitable for coating metallic implant materials of any desired surfaces. The coating comprises a collagen matrix mineralized with calcium phosphate.